OFFICER'S QUARTER

of 80 St. Charles Dragons, mounted militia, who volunteered their services to General Clark for thirty days. Both parties arrived at the fort site on September 4, 1808 and on November 10, 1808 the post was christened "Fort Osage."

Late in 1809 George C. Sibley completed his permanent factory building. It contained his quarters, dining room and kitchen, office, trade room, and storage for merchandise and furs. The goods traded to the Indians consisted mainly of blankets, traps, guns, and ammunition, tomahawks, knives, kettles, colored cloth, beads, silver ornaments, vermilion, and breech cloth. These goods were exchanged for buffalo robes, deer skins, and bear, beaver, raccoon, wolf, fox, badger, and muskrat furs. This factory was one of the few which the United States operated without loss.

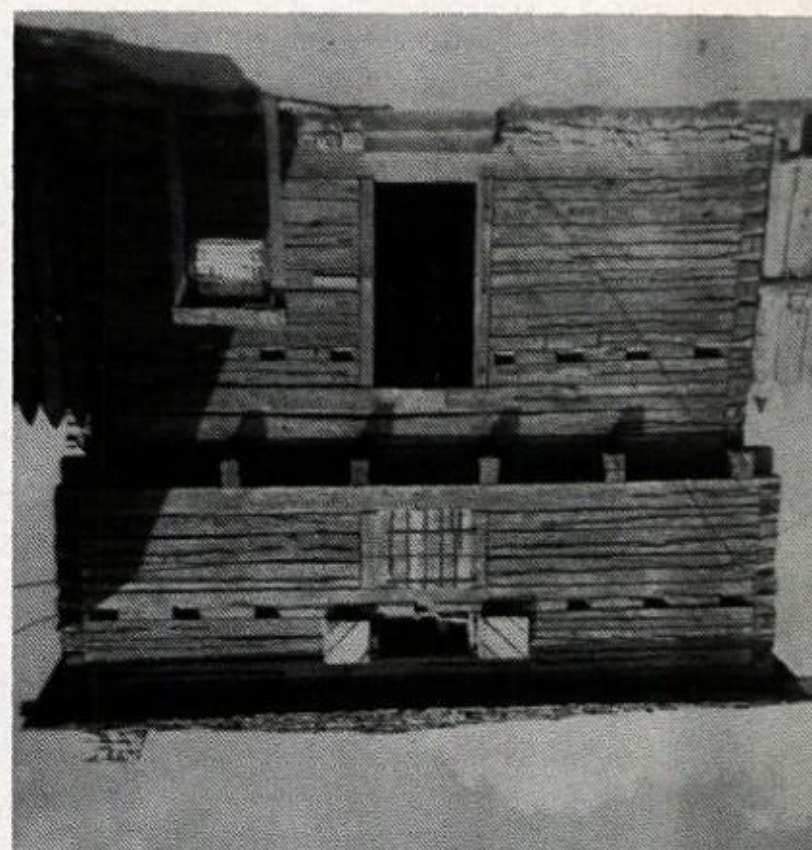

FACTORY

Fort Osage High School is named after the original Fort Osage which is located on the Missouri River a few miles north of the school.

The fort, which was the first out-post of the United States in the Louisiana Purchase, was built of hewn white-oak logs in 1808, under the supervision of William Clark, joint commander of the Lewis and Clark expedition. One of the most important purposes of the fort was to establish friendly relations with the Osage Indians who lived in this area.

In 1808, George C. Sibley, appointed United States factor, or trader, at Fort Osage, floated his goods down the Ohio River in a keel boat to Fort Bellefontaine on the Mississippi and then accompanied the Fort Osage garrison up the Missouri to the fort site. He was met by a building party that consisted of a company of 81st United States Infantry, for garrison under Captain Eli B. Clemson, and a company

MAIN BLOCKHOUSE

From 1813-1815, during the War of 1812, the fort was evacuated because five of the northern United States factories had been destroyed by British and Indians.

The garrison returned in 1816. At that time, George C. Sibley brought with him his youthful bride who became the hostess of the fort. One of her first guests was Daniel Boone of Kentucky, then 85 years old.

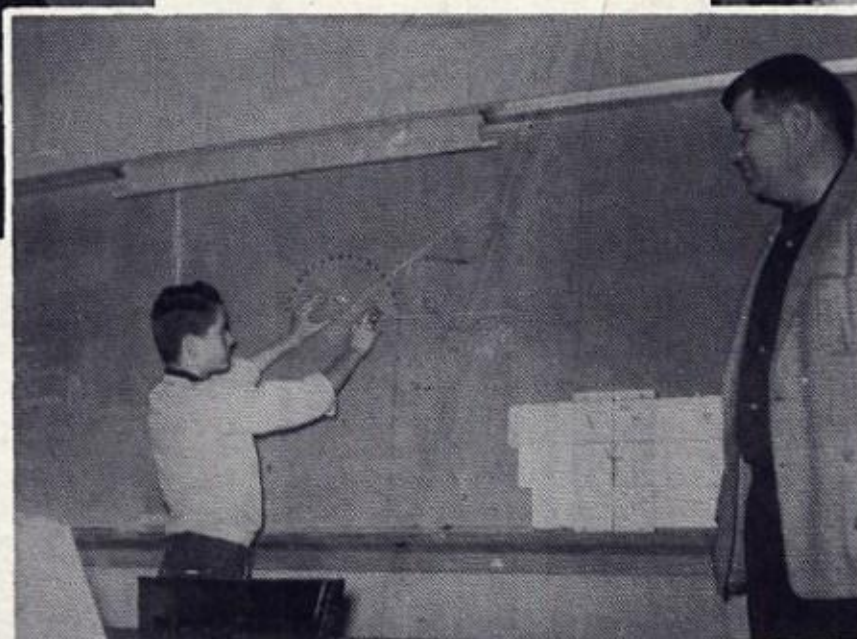

Today the old fort buildings have been restored to their original form as these pictures show.

Fort Osage High School, which was built in 1953, is named after this historical fort that played such an important part in our nation's history. Because the vicinity around the fort was the home of the Osage tribe, our athletic teams chose as their symbol, the Indians. They, like the Indians for which they are named, have shown pride and courage in all their activities. Both our school paper, the SMOKE SIGNAL, and our yearbook, INDIAN LEGENDS, further develop the Indian theme.

The following pages of the yearbook consist of a pictorial story of Fort Osage High School. The pictures are of different departments and of various activities which have taken place throughout the 1960-61 school year.

Ronald Balcom and Charles Brown help out in the cafeteria.

Mareana Shutters, Bonnie Gilland, Marlene Fisher, RoseAnn McBroom, Sharon Tracy, Wilda Willard and Kathy Cochran have assisted Mrs. Clark in the library this year.

Art Department made an interesting art display at Christmas.

Jim Davis at the drawing board in shop.

Spanish class enjoys its new tape recorder.

Junior class sells doughnuts to make money for Prom.

Dean Bay and Wayne Swearingen in social studies.

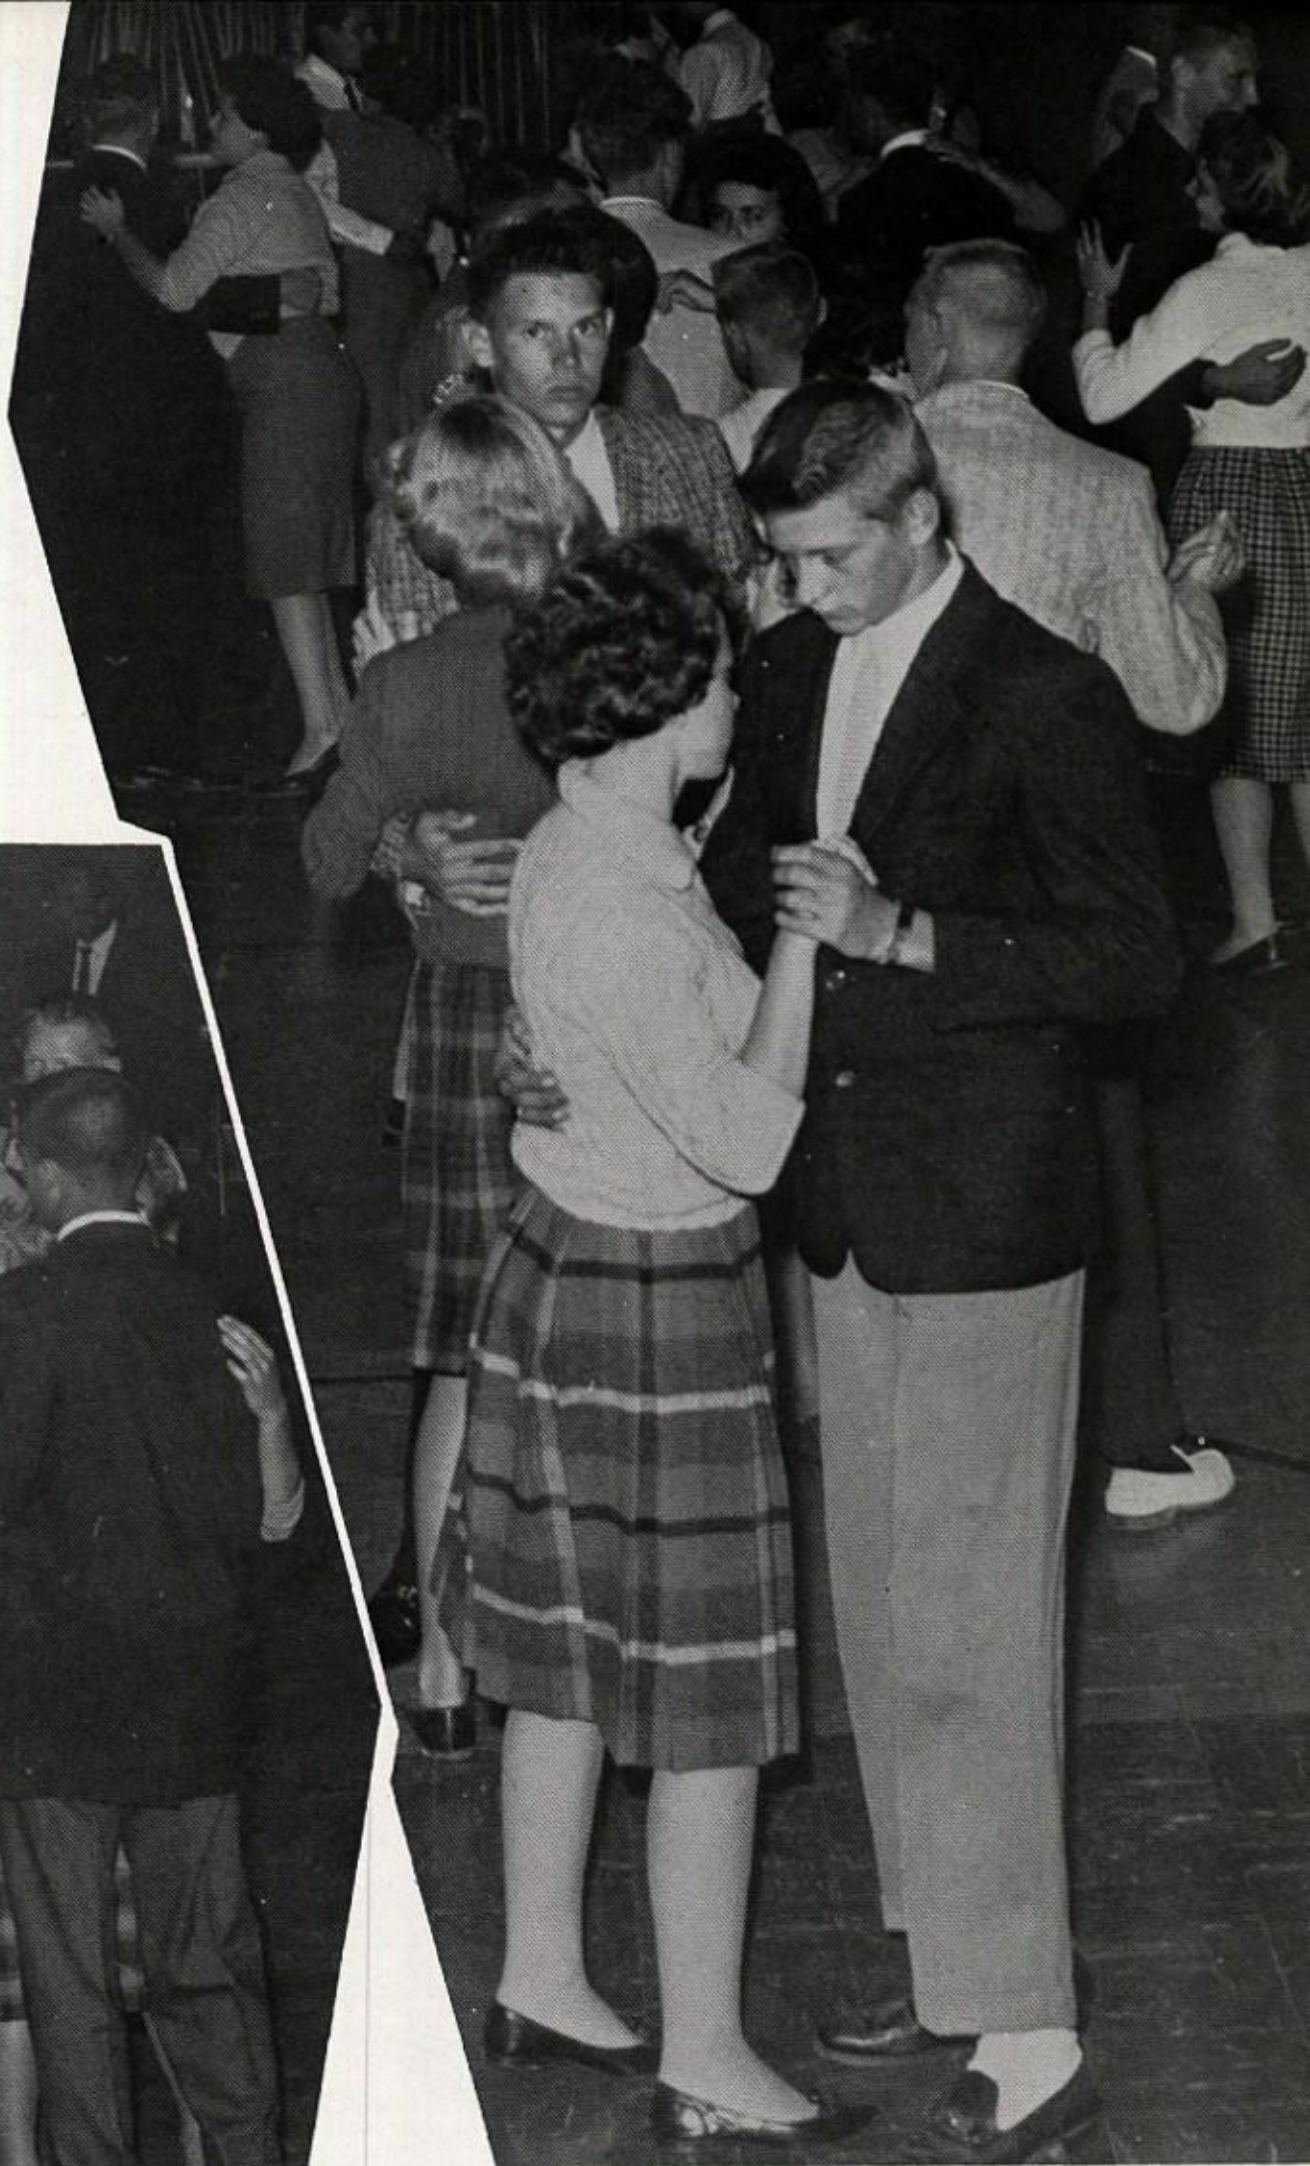

Interest at the football games ran high this year. Here Mr. Bartow, Mrs. Bartow, Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Marlow, Mrs. Jundy and Mrs. are seated in the west bleachers on the football field.

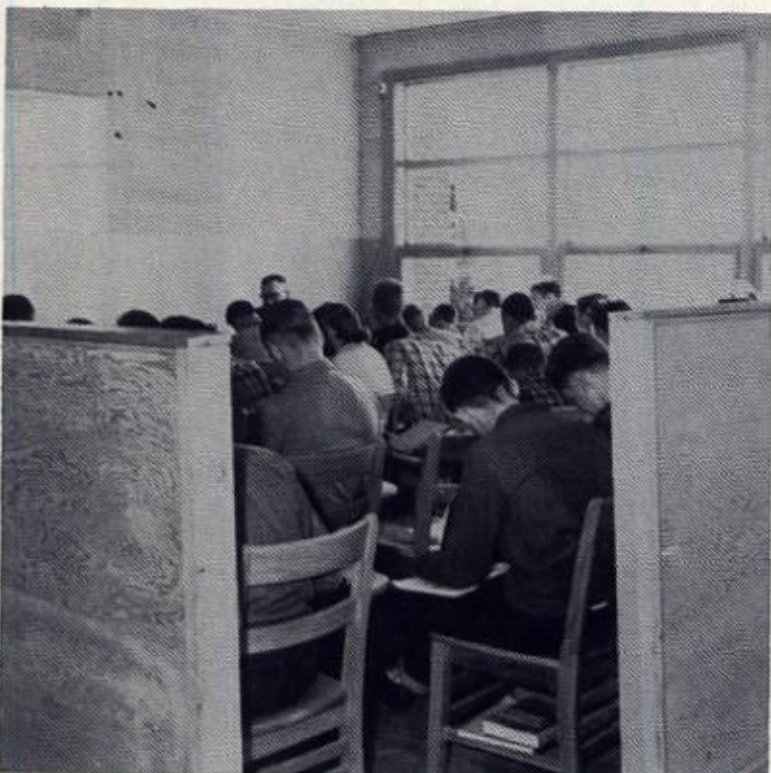

The football escorts join the queen, princesses, and candidates at the coronation ceremony on the fifty-yard line. From left to right, they are: Larry Kettlewell and Margie Iams; Jerry Croucher and Linda Mershon; Don Bruntmyer and Carol Durham; Ronnie Baker and Janel Wyatt; Jim Dyer and the queen, Ann Clemens; Mary Beth English and Larry Young; Regina Iams and Lynn White; Diane Reed and Mike Jones; Sandra Meinershagen and Kermit Depew; JoAnn Winkler and Lowell Jundy.

Out on the bleachers the cheerleaders demonstrate a new yell.

Billie Kimbrell, Mary Burch, Mary Beth English, and Nancy Mancuso model their aprons they have just completed, as they clean their units in the Home Economics Department.

Harry Barnett, attempts an experiment in the chemistry laboratory while Bruce VanDyke and Keith Miller, and Kermit Depew kibitz.

Because of the crowded conditions in the building, partial partitions were set up in the foyer, and study halls were held in this area. Here, Mr. O'Malley has good attention.

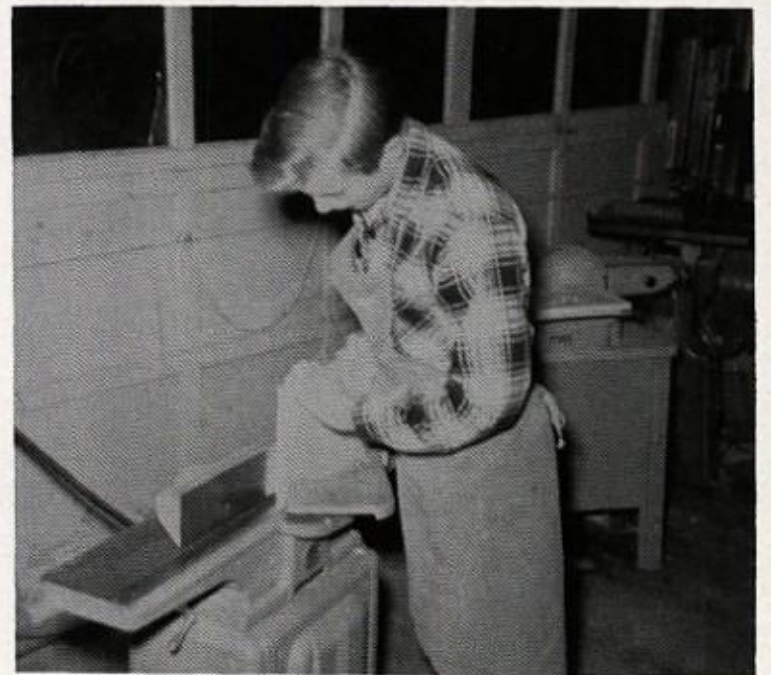

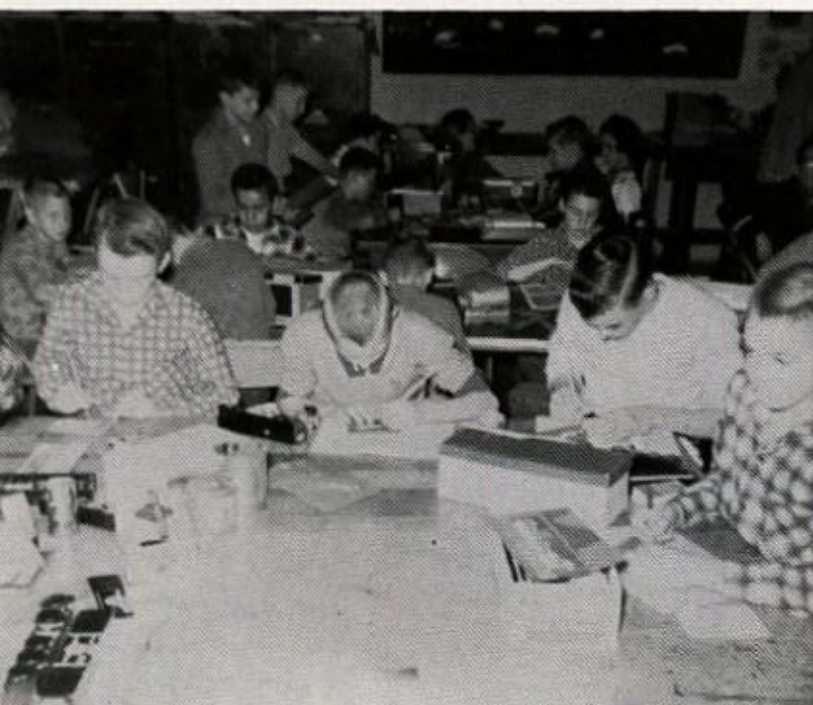

On warm, sunny days in September and October, the physical education classes enjoyed swimming at Santosage.

Andrea Price, student librarian, assists James Allison in the library.

Henry Leighton in the shop room.

The Junior High art class, conducted by Mrs. Westphal, is busily preparing for the Christmas Holidays.

Superintendent

Gale J. Bartow

This is Mr. Bartow's first year in our school system. His cheerful red hair and his friendly smile are always welcome in the halls of Fort Osage. He has built up an excellent rapport with the faculty and also with the students. He is seen at all school activities. Enthusiastically he supports the football games, the mixers, and the entertainments of the school. It is good to have him in our school system.

The Lady's Not for Burning

All School Play

This play directed by Mr. Soetaert, has as its cast students from the various classes--an innovation from the traditional class play. The period costumes added much interest and color to the play's production.

Jim Williams escorts Andrea Price to the dance.

Larry Young threatens to "brain" the chaplain, Raymond Smith.

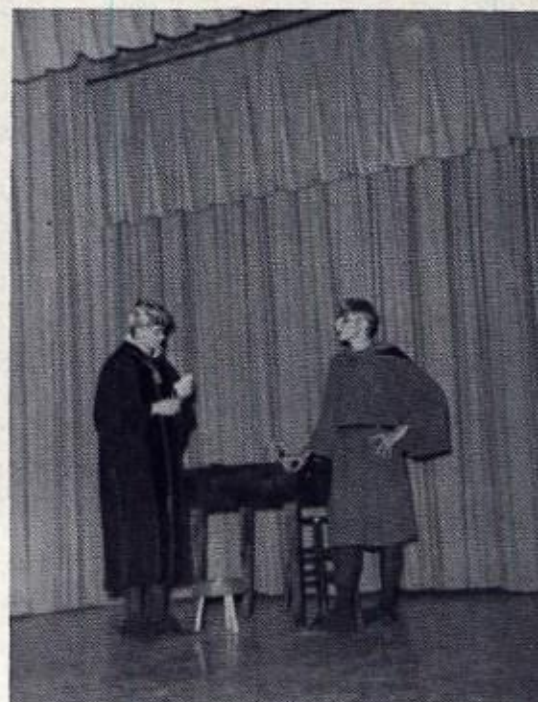

Ronnie Baker watches as Larry Young threatens Roger Schemmer.

Larry Jacks portrays the town drunk.

Ronnie Baker and Fred Moore carry Jim Williams onto the stage as Carol White looks on.

Danny Wilson confers with Roger Schemmer over an important matter.

Junior High Hi-Jinks

SEATED: Terry Berrier, Master High Jinks; Linda Lyons, Miss High Jinks. STANDING: Larry Ford, JoAnn Winkler, Bonnie Blystone, Dale Magginess.

Hi-Jinks, the annual talent show of the Junior High, was presented November 12. Mrs. Paul played the processional for the crowning of the Master and Miss Hi-Jinks. Superintendent Gale Bartow crowned Terry Berrier and Lynda Lyons as rulers of the occasion. Attendants for the Master and Miss Hi-Jinks were Joan Winkler and Larry Ford, ninth grade, and Bonnie Blystone and Dale Magginess, eighth grade.

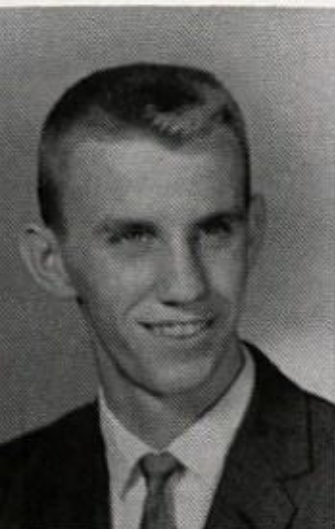

A corsage was presented to Mary Moore, principal of the Junior High, by the P.T.A.

Joe Reynolds and Diann DeKesel were crownbearers. Pages were Georgette Williamson, Sue Roberts, Amy Lale, Karen Burns, Brenda Mays, and Kay Schildhauser. Richard Gibson, Lon Jones, Richard Dyer, and Jerry Snead were the ushers.

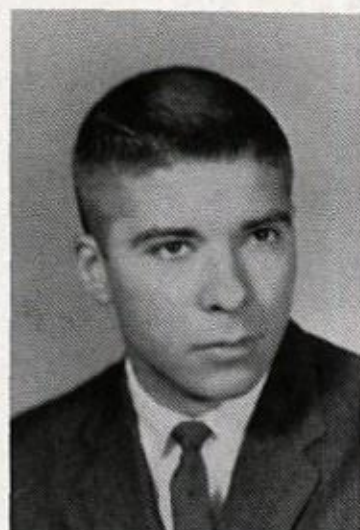

A very interesting talent show followed the coronation.
